

For a VFD model, not just because it would be larger than the current VFD model, but also would be the perfect companion to the VFD. However, I don't think we should make a mistake like we did in the past. We should be careful. The question is, what do you really want to do?

For a VFD model, not just because it would be larger than the current VFD model, but also would be the perfect companion to the VFD. However, I don't think we should make a mistake like we did in the past. We should be careful. The question is, what do you really want to do?

For a VFD model, not just because it would be larger than the current VFD model, but also would be the perfect companion to the VFD. However, I don't think we should make a mistake like we did in the past. We should be careful. The question is, what do you really want to do?

For a VFD model, not just because it would be larger than the current VFD model, but also would be the perfect companion to the VFD. However, I don't think we should make a mistake like we did in the past. We should be careful. The question is, what do you really want to do?

For a VFD model, not just because it would be larger than the current VFD model, but also would be the perfect companion to the VFD. However, I don't think we should make a mistake like we did in the past. We should be careful. The question is, what do you really want to do?

For a VFD model, not just because it would be larger than the current VFD model, but also would be the perfect companion to the VFD. However, I don't think we should make a mistake like we did in the past. We should be careful. The question is, what do you really want to do?

For a VFD model, not just because it would be larger than the current VFD model, but also would be the perfect companion to the VFD. However, I don't think we should make a mistake like we did in the past. We should be careful. The question is, what do you really want to do?

For a VFD model, not just because it would be larger than the current VFD model, but also would be the perfect companion to the VFD. However, I don't think we should make a mistake like we did in the past. We should be careful. The question is, what do you really want to do?